

Native American Law

OVERVIEW

“Modrall Sperling is a hallmark firm for reliable, efficient Indian Law advice. With a team of established veterans and rising stars, Modrall is the go-to-firm in New Mexico (and beyond) for Indian Law matters. It would be a mistake not to have them on your side.”¹

Due to the sometimes competing jurisdictional, regulatory and tax implications of federal statutes, public land laws, tribal laws and government regulations, effectively doing business in Indian country presents unique challenges. Even operations which are not on Indian lands may require consideration of the interests and concerns of Indian tribes and other Native American groups.

Structuring transactions, gaining permits, negotiating effectively, and crafting agreements that maximize predictability and enforceability can be elusive in these transactions.

Modrall Sperling’s Native American law practice is nationally recognized by Chambers USA: America’s Leading Lawyers for Business. The firm engages lawyers with Indian law experience and strength in multiple practice areas to address complex challenges representing business interests in Indian country. That seasoned depth and strong relationships developed with Indian country communities has created an environment for sound and efficient client representation.

We invite you to learn more about this nationwide practice by clicking on the links below:

- Economic Development
- Energy and Resources
- Tribal Law and Courts

RELATED ATTORNEYS

Jamie L. Allen

Liliana Benitez De Luna

Deana M. Bennett

Stuart R. Butzier

Earl E. DeBrine, Jr.

Joan E. Drake
Stan N. Harris
Christopher H. Killion
Margaret Lewis Meister
Brian K. Nichols
Yarithza Peña
Lynn H. Slade
Walter E. Stern
Sarah M. Stevenson

RELATED INDUSTRIES

Business in Indian Country
Construction and Design
Energy
Manufacturing
Mining
Railroads
Ranching and Agriculture